

CTA 2019 AGM Newsletter Report - Hilary Beck and Rosalee McAuliffe

This year the editors again produced six editions of The Chain Letter.

Members were again given the option of receiving the Chain Letter electronically or to pay an extra $10.00 to receive a printed copy. As from the start of 2019 the newsletter will only be available electronically. This new initiative along with the club's healthy financial position has allowed the CTA to reduce members subscriptions for 2019.

Thanks again to Gus King for loading the latest newsletters on the website and for advising members when available. Both Gus and Christine do a fantastic job in maintaining the membership data base. The membership data base is used to notify members of the latest edition of the newsletter via email broadcasts. Their contribution is greatly appreciated by the Editorial team..

This year we have had a reasonably good contribution from members with a variety of articles covering the club's main events and activities, as well as member's overseas adventures. We have greatly appreciated the club's photographers who have furnished us with some great photos during the year. It is really important for members to continue contributing cycling articles to The Chain Letter, whether it is on a recent tour that you have completed or tips on cycling in general, any information is always gratefully received. Please let us know what you would like in your newsletter!
